

Plastic incorporating EPI additives fit into the natural biocycle.

*Products become biodegradable when converted to different materials by oxidative degradation. This conversion can be made to happen rapidly or slowly, depending on end use requirements.